Let Congress Speak

(An Editorial)

We think it is time for the President to ask the Congress for formal authority to continue the war in Vietnam.

It is neither fair to the President nor in keeping with the principle of democracy that one man should bear the awful responsibility for this conflict.

If the President were to receive support in the Congress for continuation of the struggle it would not only broaden the responsibility but undergird the legality of our involvement.

It would also put many of the so-called protest groups who seek to run this country by mob rule clearly outside the law and in the same class with the German-American Bund group of World War II. In time of declared war those who give aid and comfort to the enemy as we are seeing done on every side today could be dealt with in the courts instead of in the streets.

If Congress saw fit to make our involvement legal with a formal declaration of war, the President then could invoke price and wage controls, rationing and all the other conditions of war which force the civilian population to suffer a little along with the soldier on the firing line.

Presently the only ones who are suffering are our fighting men and their families and they have to control themselves in the face of such "non-violent dissent" as we saw from the brick hurling, commie-loving renegades who attacked police in Washington Friday.

The Congress could decide whether the conflict is worth pursuing further.

Anything short of formal endorsement by the Congress would leave the chief executive no choice except to disengage immediately.

It is time for a decision.

Fire Destroys Residents Home

A home on South Western was heavily damaged with a flash fire that engulfed the bedroom areas Thursday evening.

Residents of the home were Mrs. Jane Walker Coats and her son, Bill Siddens, a sophomore at Canyon High School.

Mrs. Coats said that she had been in the southwest bedroom not more than five minutes prior to the blaze. She had returned to the kitchen and minutes later was puzzled by crackling sounds. Upon investigation, she said that the room was so filled with fire and smoke that it was impossible to enter.

Both south bedrooms were completely burned out and the rest of the house sustained heavy smoke damage.

Firemen of the Amarillo Fire Department who answered the call, did not comment on the cause of the fire.

The home belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Wilkinson of Fort Worth, Texas.

Chalk Evangelist Conducts Revival

Rev. Mearl Moore, pastor of the First Missionary Baptist Church in Morton, Texas, will be the evangelist conducting Revival services at the Southside Baptist Church in Canyon November 17 through 23.

Rev. Moore uses colored chalk drawings to illustrate his sermons. Highlights of the drawings are brought out with the use of ultra violet lights. The drawings are made during the same time the sermon is given in order to produce step by step understanding of the subject offered.

Raised in Albuquerque, New Mexico, Rev. Moore studied at the University of Albuquerque. He moved to Elk City, Oklahoma in 1961 and pastored a church there for five years. In 1966, he went into full time evangelistic work and last week, accepted pastordship of the church in Morton where he and his family now make their home.

Mearl Moore

He has spent eleven years in the ministry and is 38 years old.

According to Rev. Meyers, minister for Southside Baptist Church, every revival conducted by Rev. Moore has been delightful and has brought lasting results.

A nursery will be provided during services that will be at 7:30 p.m. nightly except for Sundays. Sunday services will be at 11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

Persons of other faiths or any interested person is welcomed individually or in groups.

Gun Victim Is Critical

A 24-year-old Amarillo man apparently shot himself in the right chest about 12:40 a.m. Thursday in Canyon.

Donald Wayne Strout of 805 Florida in Amarillo was listed in serious condition Saturday at Northwest Texas Hospital.

Canyon Police Chief Calvin Costley said Strout was found at 1401 6th Ave. in Canyon. A .22 caliber pistol was found also, as well as a note.

Costley surmised the shooting was an apparent suicide attempt.

Navy Didn't Hurt Buff Gridder

For a fellow who hasn't played any football to speak of since 1963, Bill McKinney isn't doing too badly for himself. The Borger, Tex., product has started all eight games for the West Texas State Buffaloes this fall and the chances are pretty good he will be starting for a couple of more years.

The 6-2, 210-pound sophomore is a 1963 graduate of Borger High School, where he was a standout on the Borger Bulldog club which lost to Warren McVey and company of San Antonio Brackenridge, 30-26, in the Class AAAA state finals.

Following four years in the U. S. Navy, McKinney returned to school, entering West Texas State for the summer sessions this year.

McKinney quickly earned a spot as a starter at middle linebacker for the Buffaloes. Through eight games he has been credited with 29 unassisted and 80 assisted tackles. He has one blocked punt and has picked off a pair of opponent passes. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS WITH MCKINNEY:

Q—Was your Navy duty hard enough to keep you in good physical condition?

A—Yes, the physical end of my duty in the Navy was tough. I was in Seal Team I, which is underwater demolition. I spent 16 months of my four-year tour of duty in Vietnam. During our 18 weeks of training we ran from three to 10 miles daily and worked our way from swimming one mile in a pool to two miles in the ocean. After training we kept up the strong physical activity to a certain extent throughout my tour.

Q—Did you get to play any football in the service?

A—The Navy football was only limited as we played a few eight-man games.

Q—Has football changed much since you last played?

A—At Borger High School we ran a base 4-3-4 defense, which is much the same type of defense we use at West Texas State, but the offenses have changed considerably. In high school, we usually faced basic T-formation teams. Our opponents now use pro-type of attacks with wide receivers.

Q—What has been the thing which has given you the most trouble this season?

A—The play-action pass is tough. On those plays the quarterback fakes to a back going through the line and rolls out to pass. I've been caught a few times by a receiver in my pass defense zone when I read the play as a run instead of a pass.

Tax Man Will Speak At Meet

Canyon's city tax assessor-collector will speak Friday at the Region I meeting of the Texas Association of Assessing Officers in Amarillo.

Don Trew, former principal of Canyon Junior High School, will speak on computerizing the tax office.

Trew, who has worked in various tax offices in Hereford, Borger and Canyon, is now an instructor in data processing at Amarillo College.

Taxing officers from Canyon attending the Friday meeting are Mrs. Fontella Clodfelter, Mrs. Audrey Bruse and Conway Kuykendall.

The meeting will be in the Villa Inn.

Q—Your Borger High School team had some standouts on it. Who are some of those players?

A—Of course John LaGrone, who is the finest defensive player I've ever seen made several All-America teams at SMU and is presently a standout in the Canadian pro league. Melvin Gibbs and Lee Johnson played at Arkansas, while Wayne Rape and Jerry Wilson started at SMU in its secondary.

Q—Do you feel the long lay-off has hurt you?

A—No. I've grown a half inch to 6-2 and presently weigh 210.

I weighed only 175 in high school. When I got out of the Navy and enrolled at West Texas I weighed 230, but worked my way down to 215 by the time practice started. I feel I have better speed and am stronger now.

Q—What is your major and what are your career plans?

A—I would like a shot at pro football. I'm 24 years old, but I don't think I'll be too old to play after I graduate from West Texas. I'm majoring in physical education and would eventually like to coach.

Increased Enrollment Seen For Ag Department

West Texas State University's agriculture department, one of the fastest growing at the institution, expects more than 700 students majoring in agriculture within the next three years, says Dr. Charles Smallwood, department head.

There are now 1,300 students enrolled in agriculture courses and 504 of them are majoring in agriculture, he says.

In a speech to members of Block and Bridle Society and Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary society, at the university, Smallwood said:

"West Texas State is included in conversations about state agricultural development--not just Texas Tech and Texas A&M. Envious eyes from other institutions are upon West Texas State because of our location and opportunities."

All members of the agricultural faculty are involved in research in addition to their teaching duties, he said. Dr. R. C. Thomason is studying the genetics of wheat proteins and enzymes.

Two instructors, Don Beerwinkle and Kenneth Stokes, plan to pursue their doctor's degrees after the current school year and will return to West Texas State to teach following their graduate studies.

Joining the staff next spring will be a professor to coordinate the new horsebreeding courses.

Smallwood said the normal development of the department and curriculum necessitated the addition of a beef and swine nutritionist, two agricultural economics instructors, an agricultural engineer and several consulting veterinarians on a part-time basis. Expansion in the chemistry and biology departments is needed, he added.

The recent organization of the West Texas State University Agricultural Alumni Development Association has given a tremendous boost to the department, Smallwood said.

He said that for every West Texas State graduate in agriculture there are two or three job opportunities waiting for him.

Smallwood told the students "you assist departmental development by being what you are... active on campus. They know the Aggies are on campus."

"Invariably, Block and Bridle members are the young men who are our supporters and boosters when they graduate," he added.

Last year the department added a broad feedlot management program of classroom instruction and practical application at Randall County Feedery near Canyon.

Dr. James P. Cornette, university president, has said that the next department elevated to separate school status would be agriculture.

Not only would a school of agriculture afford a better education for the students, Smallwood said, but it would add prestige to the university. At the suggestion of the university Board of Regents, a task force of students, agriculture faculty, graduates and departmental advisors was appointed to work toward realization of this goal.

The department has several campus and off-campus laboratories for its students to apply their classroom training. The newest addition is the dairy parlor opened this fall.

In the immediate future, Smallwood said, steer pens, similar to the commercial feedlot type, will be installed at the university farm along with a confined environmentally controlled farrow unit. With the help of a $5,000 gift from Texas Tech's swine research grant, the swine research area at the farm will be renovated, he said.

Smallwood said the most urgent needs are a meat and dairy processing laboratory and an addition to the Applied Science Building.

"In the next two or three years, we hope to double the size of the Applied Science Building," he said.

Texas A&M plans to locate a diagnostic veterinary laboratory in the Amarillo area. It has been recommended that the laboratory be placed on the West Texas State campus.

"This is a very real opportunity," Smallwood said. "If the Texas Cattlefeeders Association will help--and other livestock organizations will recommend that the lab be placed on campus, we have a good chance."

Smallwood emphasized the tremendous boost in prestige and quality that the pre-veterinary program here would receive by such an addition.

He said the department is in need of more land and that more than 11,000 acres of ranch land in the area has been considered for purchase.

Not too long ago a degree in agriculture from West Texas State did not mean much, Smallwood said. Today such a degree means prestige, he added.

Aim Of Candy Sales Aids Camp Facilities

It's candy time for the little girls canvassing town in the red, white, and blue uniforms or service costumes as they prefer to call them!

Every year about this time, Camp Fire Girls has a campaign to sell boxes of candy as a money-making project to help toward expenses for camping facilities during the summer months. And usually, the girls attempt to sell as many boxes of the confection as possible for it could mean a discount on their residence camp fees or it could very well mean that their day camp fees will be paid in full as a bonus for exceptional work.

Dates of the sale include November 14th through December 17th.

Residence camp is a twelve-day camp which costs $68 and the camp site is nestled just off the highway between Tres Ritas and Taos, New Mexico. Available activities at this particular camp include horseback riding, swimming, archery, riflery, nature and crafts, outdoor cooking and camping, and many others. The girls could earn a $20 discount for the sale of 100 boxes of candy.

Day camp takes place near the Panhandle Boat and Ski Club boathouse at Thompson Park in Amarillo and the fee is $5. By selling 50 boxes of candy, a girl may earn her entire day camp fee.

For selling 36 boxes, she may earn a gold sales charm and for 24 or more boxes, she may earn a sales certificate.

Mrs. Bill Rogers, executive director of Camp Fire Girls, mentioned that being able to participate in the sales helps the girls to learn responsibility, business procedures, confidence, poise, and builds increases in meeting the public.

Three varieties of candy are available this year through the special sales. They are Queen Bee, roasted almonds and chocolate caramel covered with milk chocolate; Assorted Chocolates; and Royal Mint which is a chocolate covered mint wafer. All candies have been specially boxed for the Camp Fire Girls program and are to sell for $1.00 a box which includes sales tax.

Cadet Receives Scholarship

Bud E. Christman, a cadet in the Reserve Officer Training Corps at West Texas State University, has received a one-year U. S. Army scholarship, the first such scholarship given in the history of the university.

Lt. Col. Billy R. Smith, professor of military science, announced the scholarship Friday.

He said the Army until recently has not given one-year scholarships. Usually, he said, scholarships are available for two and four years.

As recipient of an Army scholarship, Christman will be obligated to four years active duty in the Army.

The scholarship pays for tuition and books. Christman is an out-of-state student, coming to WTSU from New York.

War Not All Bad, Says Vet

Charles Boyd, a veteran of the war in Vietnam, told Kiwanis Friday that despite the conflict of war in that country, a little good has come from the fight.

Boyd, who is now an instructor in management at West Texas State University, presented a slide show of civic action and church work in the war-torn Vietnam.

Many of the slides were of church buildings under construction at various Air Force bases in Vietnam. He also told of the church work with the American soldiers in Vietnam.

Birthdays close to the same date happened to be the occasion for the celebration held this past week honoring Mrs. J. G. Voelm and Buford Shadix.

Mrs. Voelm's birthday was the 15th of November and Buford's was the 11th.

The group celebrated with a weiner roast that included all the trimmings, cake, and home made ice cream.

her son, Kevin; Mr. and Mrs. Buford Shadix, Mike and Mitch; and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. "Whitney" Voelm, Mike and Patti.

Downstate to see the game between the University of Texas at Arlington Rebels and the West Texas State University Buffaloes in Dallas last week was the coach's family, Mrs. Joe Kerbel, Sammy, Paula, and Kathy. Before the game, the Kerbels had been over to Breckenridge to visit with Mrs. Kerbel's mother, Mrs. D. C. Davis. Then the group drove to Dallas where they met about fifteen members of Joe's family. All attended the game together and gathered for a sort of reunion after the game before returning home.

Dr. and Mrs. John Smith, Tim, Diane and Debbie were guests over the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Davis, Jr. in Canyon.

The Smiths were from Alva, Oklahoma and were here to meet the new addition to the Davis family, Dustin Lamar.

Visiting in Plainview recently was Mrs. Ruby Bonds.

She was there visiting with her mother, Mrs. Mattie Hill, week before last.

Rev. Bobby Meyers, pastor of the Southside Baptist Church in Canyon, has returned from a meeting of the Baptist Missionary Association of Texas.

The annual affair took place at the Webb Chapel Baptist Church in Dallas from the 10th through the 12th of November.

The Spanish language film will be shown Monday at 1 and 3 p.m. in Room 101, University Complex South and again Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in Room 101, UCS.

The 100-minute film, with English subtitles, won a grand prize of the Berlin Film Festival and took seven other international awards. It is based on the celebrated picturesque novel of Spain "Lazarillo de Tormes".

Business that took place included reports from department heads on activities such as missions, Christian education, Jacksonville Baptist College, Texas Baptist Home for Children, and Texas Baptist Youth For Christ.

Discussions were held and suggestions, plans, and outlines were set up for the coming year.

Messenger Alec Gordon, membership delegate for the Southside Baptist Church, also attended the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hinger have returned home from a weekend in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

They were over there to visit their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cutcher and son Craig.

Pleasantview HD Holds Luncheon

Annual Thanksgiving luncheon for the Pleasantview Home Demonstration Club was held November 12 at the home of Mrs. Jim Irbeck with Mrs. H. M. Stokes giving the luncheon invocation.

Tables were marked with placecards and fall floral centerpieces denoting the holiday theme.

After the luncheon, the club was led in a business session by Mrs. Jim Irbeck, president. Roll call was answered by 18 members and 4 guests with a double idea on "floor covering favorites" and "what Thanksgiving means to me."

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the opening exercise by Mrs. Ed Cramer was a poem on "How To Give Thanks". Mrs. Cristler Crain gave the treasurer's report and the council report was given by Mrs. Bill Head. In addition, other standing committee chairmen gave reports.

The club selected December 5, at 7 p.m., for the club's annual husband's Christmas party to be held at the Farm Bureau Building.

The club's afternoon Christmas party for revelation of secret pals and exchange of Christmas gifts will be held December 10 in the home of Mrs. Wire Wright at 2 p.m.

Bands Battle At Halftime

A "battle of the bands" was held at Saturday's halftime activities in Buffalo Bowl with the two university band directors, Dr. Gary Garner and Donald Baird, marched with the bands for the first time in West Texas State's band history.

Both Dr. Garner and Baird were outfitted in regulation band uniforms and marched on the field with their respective band, Dr. Garner with the 80 member freshman band and Baird with the upperclassmen's band.

A spectator "applause vote" was taken after the two bands performed.
